

AMANDA RONE

communication director | media producer | cross-cultural educator

ABOUT ME

I'm a trained journalist, an experienced communication director, a creative media producer, and a dedicated cross-cultural educator. The importance of social, spiritual, and interpersonal reconciliation comes across in all sectors of my work - whether I'm shooting a music video for a church or designing a curriculum for learning English. My creative flair is tempered with an eye for detail and a thirst for the truth. My sense of humor and emotional connection with my work make me a great coworker.
